

ASSOCIATION FOR
PUBLIC POLICY ANALYSIS
& MANAGEMENT

APPAM is excited to invite students for an afternoon of public policy programming this fall!

Friday, November 10
1:00pm - 7:30pm
Hyatt Regency Atlanta

Join us to learn more about policy degrees, potential career opportunities, the latest research in public policy, and to network with fellow students and professionals from around the world. This event is held in conjunction with the APPAM Annual Fall Research Conference and is available for undergraduate, masters, and doctoral students.

Agenda

1:00 pm – 3:00 pm

Career and PhD Program Fair

Grand Hall East

Are you on the job market or interested in learning more about potential jobs in your field? Join us for our inaugural Career and PhD Program Fair! This is an opportunity to connect with employers for informational and informal discussions about jobs in policy, data science, public affairs, economics, and other careers. It's also an opportunity to hear more from potential PhD programs.

3:00 pm – 5:00 pm

Undergraduate Student Seminar: Paths in Policy and How to Get There

Regency V

This two-hour seminar is geared towards undergraduate students and will cover the difference between an MPA and MPP, the different career paths you can take with each degree type and level, and it'll wrap with a resume & CV overview & individual document review. This event will incorporate table discussions and provide an opportunity to network with peers and professionals.

*Bring your printed resume/CV to the seminar since printers are not available onsite.

3:30 pm – 5:00 pm

Meet with a Policy Expert Workshop

Dunwoody

Choosing a policy field to build your career in can be daunting. Professionals, young or experienced, looking to gain some insight on a particular field will have the opportunity to meet, engage, and discuss with a variety of policy experts in this session. This session will bring together people in a series of informal roundtables to meet with policy experts, discuss grant funding, transitioning careers, and getting published. All attendees are welcome but this session is geared towards masters and PhD students.

5:00 pm – 6:30 pm

Poster Reception

Grand Hall East and West

Browse the latest academic and field research from students and professionals over complimentary food and drinks. Judges will award three poster presentations to be recognized.

6:30 pm – 7:30 pm

Student Mixer

Regency V

The APPAM Student Activities Committee (SAC) is looking forward to hosting the student reception for structured and organic networking through games and tables based on policy areas. Most importantly, refreshments will be provided!

APPAM Student Members receive discounted conference registration. Registration is $150 through Monday, October 30 and is $230 to register onsite.

Questions? Email info@appam.org or visit www.appam.org for more information.

Student Hub and Exhibit Hall

Registration also gives you access to our Exhibit Hall, Headshot Lounge, and Student Hub. Our Exhibit Hall hosts sponsors, special events, and even grants access to our free headshot lounge. The Student Hub is a space for students to network, recharge, or get work done in between sessions. These spaces are open until 6:30 pm and are located in Grand Hall West and Grand Hall Foyer.

Why participate?

This event is an invaluable opportunity to build your social and professional networks, connect with potential employers or schools, and engage with the broader APPAM community. The Annual Fall Research Conference hosts 2,500+ policy professionals spanning over 15 different policy areas.

APPAM Student Membership is $40/year and gives students access to discounted registration rates, networking opportunities, a subscription to Journal of Public Policy Analysis and Management (JPAM), access to digital content including webinars, opportunities to showcase your research, discounted conference rates, and more throughout the year.
